

Waltham, Mass. January 11, 2007 Strategic Risk Solutions (SRS), a provider of captive management and consulting services announced that it has hired Patrick Pollard as Director-Domestic Operations based in its Burlington, Vermont office. Pat has more than 18 years of experience in the insurance industry and will be responsible for managing operations and ensuring continued outstanding service to SRS clients, as well as, overseeing the timely and accurate financial reporting to regulatory authorities.

Prior to joining SRS, Pat held various financial and operational positions at Arkwright Mutual Insurance Company and was instrumental in managing and implementing several key operational initiatives. As a member of both the Operating and Management Committees of Arkwright, Pat took part in leading the organization through a significant growth period as well as merging Arkwright into FM Global, currently a $4.0 billion property insurance company.

He also held planning and financial analysis positions at both a risk management consulting firm as well as a $16 billion asset management firm. Most recently Pat provided consulting services to companies in the insurance and asset management industries.

“Pat’s strong leadership capabilities and strong organization skills will be tremendously beneficial for SRS as we continue to grow in Vermont and other U.S. onshore domiciles,” said Brady Young, SRS’ President and CEO. “ We are thrilled to have someone of Pat’s caliber join our organization as we strive for operational excellence.”

Pat graduated from Babson College with honors in the top two percent of his graduating class with an accounting and finance degree and has been a member of various professional planning organizations as well as community boards.

Pat is married and has 2 sons (one in college) that keep him and his wife quite busy.
